

Religion is a'changing

What's happening to religion? Something big is going on!
There's an undercurrent of a change, I can feel it everywhere.
You may think nothing is changing if you measure it from Sunday to Sunday.
But a wind of change is sweeping across the plains of faith and is increasingly picking up speed from year to year, weakening the foundations of all religions of faith.
People are scurrying here and there searching for safe harbors and stable beliefs to cling to and grasp.
The West is adopting the non-theism of the East and it's own form of aggressive political atheism of hate.
Islam is appearing in the midst of what were Christian strongholds.
Babies born to Muslims will outnumber Christian births by 2035.
True Judaism is diminishing everywhere.
Mainline Christian denominations are consistently being undermined by their own people and clergy.
Some think of it as a deliberate infiltration by certain ideologs.
Traditional anything is practiced by a shrinking minority in every form of religion.
And cults are absorbing more and more people.
There is an increase in the numbers of unaffiliated people, people with no religious association. What can we be sure of?
Who can we believe in anymore?
Religion is a'changing!
